

Rhyl Town Council brought sunshine to shoppers and visitors to mark St David's Day.

With help from Ghostbusters Community Choir and two giant stilt-walking daffodils, the town council saw off Storm Jorge to brighten up the day for shoppers and visitors.

Ghostbusters pulled out all the stops to perform live songs and the stilt walkers handed out Welsh flags and real daffodils.

Rhyl mayor Cllr Ellie Chard and fellow councillors were on hand to spread some cheer.

Cllr Chard said: "The weather may have continued to try and beat a march, but we were determined to outperform it and cheer people up after what has been a grey, wet and miserable few weeks.

"The giant daffodils raised smiles and were a real bright spot on the high street with people stopping for pictures. By giving people a daffodil to take away, we gifted them a little bit of sunshine to take home."

The next event will be on Monday April 13, with Easter capers on the High Street.
